

Wide Program Here Protects City From Illegal Schemes and Frauds

Last week the South Bay police apprehended and charged Ellen Hannon with soliciting in the city without a permit. She was released after forfeiting $35 bond.

The Hannon woman was allegedly working with legitimate photographers in this area. The same group presented themselves in Belle Glade and found our permit fees too high.

They explained that they would not solicit here. Contrary to this the group did solicit money for coupons which would be redeemed for pictures when the photographers set up their studio.

The photographers were to establish their studio in a motel outside the city. They were refused a room and finally set up in Chosen. Several people complained here and in South Bay that they paid for pictures they never received.

The loss of money could have been prevented if the persons who purchased coupons were more familiar with existing regulations.

The city of Belle Glade is well protected from illegal hawkers and salesmen who do not sell bona fide merchandise.

Itinerant merchants and peddlers who enter the city to sell their products must obtain a permit from the city clerk. Most of them come under the careful scrutiny of Clarence Tilton, tax collector at the city hall.

In this manner the good are separated from the bad. R. W. Lanier, president of the Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors, said, "We want to get across to the people that they do have city protection against illegal schemes." It was pointed out that the Chamber issues clearance cards to bona fide salesmen and solicitors. When a citizen here or a merchant is presented with a sales proposition or solicitation, he should ask first, "Have you a city permit?" and secondly, "Do you have a Chamber of Commerce clearance card?" The holder of a red card does not have Chamber approval.

Lanier said that merchants should not do business with anyone not having a valid card. This campaign of protection was mapped out by the National Better Business Bureau, of which Belle Glade's Chamber is a member.

Strong ordinances back up this campaign. All ordinances in force regulating itinerant salesmen, peddlers, solicitors, canvassers, etc. are court-tested regulations with stiff fines in reserve for their violation. The laws are all less than two years old and are up-to-the-minute statutes—not outmoded ones.

Clarence Tilton, who does most of the interrogation among persons seeking city permits, says there are numerous attempts made here to defraud the public.

Many of the slick operators enter the area during the harvesting season, peaks. Tilton went on to say these men were professionals at their various shell games and are often crafty in their illegal practices. This constant diligence by him and other city officials serves to protect Belle Glade from their shady schemes.

If anyone knows of these attempts, if every citizen and merchant keeps his guard up, there is less chance of any scheme ever working in this city.

It takes a lot of time to get experience, and once you have it you ought to go on using it.

Tallahassee Attorney Named State Chairman For March Of Dimes

Wendell C. Heaton, Tallahassee Attorney, has been appointed Florida State Chairman for the 1956 March of Dimes. It was announced by Basil O'Connor, President of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Inc.

Heaton has been a resident of the State since 1924 and was President of the Florida Federation of Labor from 1931 to 1939. He was the first Chairman of the Florida Industrial Commission, serving in this capacity for four years, and has served as Director of the State Chamber of Commerce. A veteran of World War I, Heaton served as Chairman of the National Advisory Committee of the U.S. Department of Labor from 1935 to 1939 and also as Director of the General Council during this period. Mr. Heaton served as Deputy Commissioner for the Florida Industrial Commission until the early part of this year. He is a member of the Florida Bar Association, American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars. He is a Mason and Shriner.

Mr. Heaton is married and has one son who is attending medical college at the University of Miami.

In accepting the chairmanship for the State of Florida, Heaton pointed out "Polio is not licked yet. We must continue to provide for the thousands of patients stricken in previous years and thousands more who may be stricken before the disease is conquered. We cannot stop our research program until we have a vaccine as near perfect as possible."

"Florida is deeply appreciative of what the March of Dimes has done toward the health and welfare of the people of this great State. I am confident that the January campaign will find Floridians responding with their usual generous contributions," continued Heaton.

President O'Connor stated in making the appointment, "I feel certain that our volunteers in Florida will gain strength in their knowledge that Mr. Heaton will serve as their leader."

 laws in this state. Broken down, they are: 24 life, 11 casualty companies; 15 fire; 1 reciprocal; 1 business trust; 1 hospital service plan; and 1 medical-surgical service plan.

There are 640 foreign companies admitted to do business in Florida which, together with the total of 54 companies organized under the laws of Florida make a total of 694 companies licensed in this state.

At the present time, I would estimate that there are approximately 13,000 individual life insurance agents, 4,000 fire and casualty agents, 1,500 accident and health agents, and about 1,000 adjusters, licensed by the Insurance Department.

During the 1954-55 license year, the department issued 54,216 insurance agents, solicitors and adjusters licenses. Approximately 34,000 of these licenses were for fire and casualty lines, and the remaining 20,000 were for life and accident and health lines.

Direct writings in Florida for 1954, all classes, amounted to $418,340,000, an increase in 1954 of 31.4%.

After reviewing all fire, windstorm and extended coverage rate reductions approved by this office for the period 1943 through 1954 I believe a safe and conservative estimate of the rate reductions amount to a savings in premium to the people of Florida of more than $17,000,000 annually. By this is meant that the people in Florida are paying $17,000,000 less on the present volume of business than would have been paid had the rates not been reduced.

All agents, solicitors and adjusters representing insurance companies in Florida must meet certain qualifications provided by law, pass a written examination and be issued a license covering the type of insurance to be written.

All life insurance companies must file, prior to their use, life insurance policies for approval or disapproval according to the laws. Heretofore the law required only that they be filed ing of the Woman's Club last Wednesday afternoon by Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Bratley.

The business meeting was presided over by Mrs. Thomas Breger with Mrs. William Thibault giving the devotion, "Choosing God As Our Traveling Companion".

Mrs. L. L. Price and Mrs. Thos. Breger, fair representatives attending the fair committee meeting, reported they voted to cooperate with the community for a successful fair for Belle Glade.

Announcement was made that the next meeting, featuring a members party on Dec. 8, would be held at the Episcopal Parish, and a toy box would be placed there for good, new or used toys to be distributed by the club to needy families.

The group voted to back the Girl Scout fund raising campaign by sending a representative, Mrs. William Wall. The group also voted to join the Palm Beach County Health Association and to have the seats of the club chairs covered in plastic.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. John Talbot, Mrs. Harold Rabin, Mrs. William Wall and Mrs. Russell Tucker.

Since relatively few men and women come to the Army with fully developed skills, the Army trains its personnel to perform their jobs in Army schools all over the world. Needless to say, such specialized Army training would give a young woman quite a head start on an extra good job when she returns to civilian life.

Almost half the Wacs work in overseas bases in Germany, France, Panama, and Japan. A 30-day paid vacation a year leaves a lot of room for extra traveling and sightseeing, whether in the United States or overseas.

Enlistments are open now for either two or three years. To be eligible for the WAC, a young woman must be at least a high school graduate between the ages of 18 and 34, inclusive, and she must be single when she enters the Army, although she may get married while in the service.

UNIFORM EARTAGGING PLAN FOR CATTLE IS SPONSORED BY USDA

A nationwide, uniform plan for identifying dairy and beef cattle with only one eartag for each animal is being pioneered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

This new system provides a combination of letters and numbers sufficient to tag more than eight billion cattle in the United States and territories without a single duplication. Thus many different groups may use the identification number provided by the first tagging of an animal, later that cattle had this same number.

The most important feature of the new system is a single "book" (record of number assignments) kept in each State. Official agencies and groups continue to buy identification tags where they choose, but they first obtain a block assignment of numbers from the Federal or State official keeping the book within their State.

Designating central offices for this purpose will be one of the first acts necessary in implementing the uniform tagging plan. Agencies or groups reserving a large block of numbers from the central State official will then be responsible for making and recording assignments of sequences of these numbers to their various members.

The complete series of eartag numbers is a single State number, for example, from 35-AAA0001 through 35-ZZZ9999. (The number "35" is the State code. This provides a block of 169,000,000 different numbers for each State, sufficient for all of the different agricultural groups concerned with dairy-herd improvement, artificial breeding, and disease eradication. Within the full block of numbers, for example, one group in a State might wish to "book" for its use the X series, providing 6,760,000 different numbers. One section of this group might then be allocated the XA sequence of numbers, while another takes the XB sequence. The backs of the tags may carry the name or initials of the purchasing group.

The new plan has these major advantages: (1) no duplication of identification numbers; (2) only one tag per animal; (3) no additional cost to individuals and groups. As central booking offices are established at State initiative, the USDA anticipates that the new system for uniform numbering will be quickly and widely adopted.

Grass Roots Opinion

"A $2,500 auto made by hand would cost $17,500... and consequently there would be very little automobile production. Because of greater productivity per man, we have so much more for so much less, that millions can buy things which they could not otherwise afford. With the passing of time, tools and machinery have gradually replaced muscular effort. Today 90 per cent of our total energy is mechanical, 10 per cent muscular. Without efficient equipment and machinery, our leaders could produce little more than their grandfathers. Machines don't make a few things for a few rich families. Mass production means mass distribution. Mass consumption, mass production means mass goods for more people!"—Hartford (Pa.) Times.

"Suppose that each of us was assessed in one lump sum the same amount we now pay in hidden taxes. This lump sum would have a pretty sobering effect, and those of us who clamor for more and more government services and subsidies would be likely to revise our thinking considerably... The inescapable fact is... that the people have to pay for what their government spends. The amount they pay is going to be the same, whether it is taken from them a cent at a time or in one fat, fearful sum."—Boothbay (Me.) Register.

"Postal Service News tells the story of the jaybird, looking for nesting material, swooped down on a dilapidated rail mailbox, grabbed a letter in its beak and flew off. A member of the family snatched the bird only its heavy cage, and the letter was dropped in an envelope containing a pension check. Those interested in improving their mailboxes can secure helpful information from their carriers."—Ever (Glenn) (Miss.) Revue.

Big Volume—Small Profits

The National Retail Dry Goods Association has released a report covering the 1954 operating experience of almost 500 department and variety stores.

The first quarter was comparatively poor. Then improvement set in and was maintained during the final three quarters. The total 1954 sales volume was very high.

However, this doesn't mean that profits also were high. These retailers earned a net profit, after income taxes, of only 2.1 per cent of sales. In other words, they could keep only a fraction more than two cents out of each dollar the customers spent with them.

All the rest went to buy stocks, pay wages and taxes, and to meet other inescapable costs.

"There's nothing like open competition to hold prices at a minimum and keep standards of service up—at American retailing demonstrations."

The Newspaper Tops The List

Alfred G. Peterson, who is president of the National Sales and Advertising, has this to say about advertising: "I feel that advertising is a very profitable investment. But we must be very careful in advertising blindly. We should give careful consideration both to the appeals and the media we use."

"The medium which tops the list is the medium that reaches the greatest number of people at the lowest cost. It is my opinion the newspaper is that medium. I place the newspaper at the top of the list because it reaches the greatest number of people. All of us are really conducting local businesses. We may be bound together into a national industry, but our spheres of influence are entirely local."

"The newspaper reaches precisely the people we want to reach."

Well spoken, Mr. Peterson!

Farm Safety Week

It's probably unfortunate that the American people are asked to observe so many "weeks" devoted to advancing some cause or other. Their very number tends to produce disinterest. But, that to one side, many of these "weeks" are of great importance, and are deserving of every possible support and success.

That will be the case when Farm Safety Week is observed between July 24th and 30th. Accidents constitute a grim and heavy toll on agriculture—a toll that must be paid for both in needless human suffering and loss, and in money and materials.

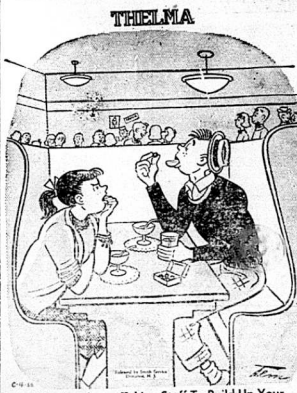

Farm people are susceptible to dangers common to all of us—such as highway and home accidents. In addition, modern farming is a highly technical and mechanized enterprise, and this inevitably creates additional hazards. But we can reduce the ill-informed. As an example, the farm equipment manufacturers have done everything possible to build safety into their machines along with efficiency and economy. But no manufacturer can delay anything about users who won't follow the simple and basic safety rules and practices. The same thing is true of farm electrical equipment, and of modern pesticides and other aids to better and more profitable farming.

During the week, experts of all kinds will do everything in their power to point to the hazards the farmer encounters—and to show him how they may be eliminated or minimized. Every farm family will have a chance to learn lessons that will save life and limb. May they take full advantage of it!

Two Kinds Of Equality

According to Bureau of Labor-Statistics records, it looks like the old and obviously good idea of paying people according to their experience, skill and productive ability, is back in style. The idea of economic leveling, which started in the New Deal days, resulted in pay raises on a cents-per-hour basis across the board. This benefited the lower paid, less skilled workers much more than the experienced and capable people in higher wage brackets and tended to draw the two ends of the wage scale together.

In 1955 we began to get back on the track, as the trend shifted to percentage wage raises which result in the increase being a proportion of current income, instead of an arbitrary dollar-and-cents figure. This is good news for America and everybody in it. People have different capabilities and you can't change that, so the best thing to do is recognize and take advantage of it.

Our country was built on the idea of maintaining as much equality of opportunity as is humanly possible. The alien and destructive idea of equality of economic status should be buried deep and forgotten. It could build nothing but national mediocrity.

Grass Roots Opinion

"It may be true that unionism protects some persons, but for every person aided by union compulsion, at least one other is injured. A man who is kept on at his job by a union after he has demonstrated his incompetence, is merely keeping some other man who is more competent from having gainful employment. The incompetent is protected, the competent discriminated against. Economically, the result is less production per dollar spent, therefore higher prices for consumers."—Odessa (Tex.) American.

"While sound spending and economy are all important, it is well to remember that if people bought only what they need this would be a poor country indeed. Our actual needs, you know, are simple. It is for this reason that we encourage folks to wear better clothes, to ride in automobiles, to invest in labor-saving appliances, and to attend the ball games and the movies. Otherwise, business volume would diminish, a lot of folks would be thrown out of employment, and our civilization would be little better than that maintained by the Indians."—West Point (Miss.) Daily Times Leader.

"Ours is a profit and loss system. Any time the possibility of loss is eliminated you can be as certain that the system has been destroyed as you could be if the opportunity for profit were no longer available."—Bassett (Va.) Henry County Journal.

Time—For Defense

Switzerland now has about 63 per cent of the American watch market. The top military people have warned that, in the interest of national defense, what remains of our own watch industry must be preserved and protected. Secretary of Defense Wilson recently said a study showed that "the entire horological industry was essential to the mobilization base."

The reason is that the precision parts we find in watches also are required in the manufacture of timing devices used in modern weapons—A-bombs, Nikes, fighting planes, and so on. One B-36 has 3,000 jeweled bearings in its instruments.

All of us would do well to think of this when we buy watches. It's vital that we keep our watchmakers at their benches.

It Can Be Done

Writing in the American Magazine, Senator Byrd had this to say about federal spending: "Sometimes you may get the discouraged feeling that forces are now loose in the growth of the federal octopus that are beyond the power of mere man to halt. 'I say they can be halted, and reversed... But I might as well warn that it will be done only if you, the taxpayers, make your sentiments known this month and next. Make them known to friends. And make them known to elected officials. You are more powerful than you realize. Elected officials generally are eager to do what they feel the public wants. The trouble is that the only public they hear from consists of the 'gimmie' groups which camp in their anterooms."

If we can't balance the budget in a time of booming business and enormous tax collections, when can it be balanced?

Strict Tests Through Every Process Assure Safety of Salk Polio Vaccine

For the first time in history, a vaccine is protecting millions of human beings from paralytic polio. While the Salk vaccine will not work in every case, American children are being safeguarded against the dread disease, with no more risk than they would take in a vaccination against smallpox or a typhoid shot. The Salk vaccine must pass elaborate tests under the watchful eye of a government inspector at every stage of production. Then the final packaged vaccine is approved by the U.S. Public Health Service for distribution. Here are shown a few of the steps that assure American parents their children are being given a safe vaccine.

This technician is filtering dead cells and all other foreign matter from polio virus after it has grown on an animal tissue in glass containers.

Virus is "cooked" in tank with formaldehyde (from bottle) until it is rendered harmless, after which it must pass exacting safety tests.

Animal tissue in tubes is inoculated with vaccine and let stand. If any live virus remains, it will multiply here, hence can be detected.

This expert is examining tissue after contact with vaccine, to determine absence of live virus.

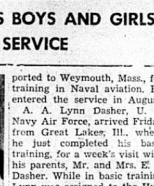

It's all over and it didn't hurt a bit! Salk vaccine makes this little girl safer now from paralytic polio. And her parents feel better too!

The nation is following closely efforts of the United States and the Western world to bring from Russia positive commitments to back her professed peaceful intentions.

"In visits throughout Florida we are stressing the need for preparedness as the essential element in attaining peace.

"The United States must remember that Nikolai Lenin painted three masks for the ugly face of Communism, and one of the masks is a smile. He set forth alternate courses of aggression, subversion and sometimes smiling appeasement.

"Whether the Soviet smile or blusters, the national defense must be maintained while we try to work out an honorable plan for peace."

In addition to maintaining our active units of Army, Navy, Air Force, and Marine Corps, one of the best ways to keep America strong is by supporting your hometown soldiers, members of the National Guard. Investigate now the advantages which can be yours as a member of the civilian army. The local unit of the Guard—a unit for all the Glades—meets each Monday at the American Legion Hall at 8 p.m.

It's The Law

Right to Representation
Our trial courts are filled with drama.

So, the newspapers, radio, books, magazines, and TV play up drama, but often play down the pains we take to reach justice in our courts. A court is an interesting place if you know who the "parties" are and what they do to obtain real justice.

The elements in a court are the judge—he lays down the law; the jury—it settles the facts; the "plaintiff" and the "defendant."

The plaintiff in a civil action claims that somebody has violated his rights to his detriment.

The defendant denies that he has done any legal harm to the plaintiff.

In a criminal trial the plaintiff is "the state." It is represented by the State Attorney. The defendant is the accused.

All criminal actions are entitled: State of Florida versus Joe Doe.

Our Constitution holds that each party has a right to "counsel." You may have your lawyer present to guard your interests.

You can tell him things in confidence. He will not—indeed, he cannot—lawfully reveal them. The right to counsel is a basic right of all people appearing in our courts. When any body infringes this right, our Supreme Court has reacted swiftly.

A man or woman in trouble needs a "friend in court" of his own choice whom he can trust.

A lawyer swears "to maintain inviolate the confidence, and at every peril to himself, to preserve the secrets of his client."

He also swears "never to reveal, for any consideration personal to himself, the cause of the defenseless or the oppressed."

Hence, a lawyer is duty bound to represent accused persons, even in the face of public wrath. The "quillman" person has a right to a fair trial. To get it, the lawyer must see that he has a fair jury, and that only lawful evidence is presented against him.

(The Florida Bar, as a public service, presents this column to inform, not to advise. Facts may change the application of the law.)

December 1 Set As Safe Driving Day

Three kinds of persons are responsible for the nation's traffic accidents—men, women and children.

They will be the target for the second observance of S-D Day on Dec. 1, sponsored by the President's Committee for Traffic Safety.

President Eisenhower has set this Safe Driving Day for Americans to prove that by their own efforts traffic accident increased observance of safe driving practices.

Purpose of the day, the committee said, is to increase awareness of the traffic accident problem and inspire drivers and pedestrians to assume their individual and personal responsibility for highway safety. They will be urged to:

1. Obey the letter and spirit of all traffic regulations by driving at speeds prescribed by law or indicated by road and weather conditions, by signaling turns and stops, by being extra alert and slowing at railroad crossings, and by crossing streets correctly at intersections.

2. Be courteous to all drivers and pedestrians, give a break to pedestrians and turning motorists, and to practice good sportsmanship by keeping to the right, staying in their own lane and avoiding unnecessary use of the horn.

3. Give full attention to driving and walking, practice the fundamentals of safe driving by keeping two hands on the wheel and attention on the road, keep windshields and windows clean and clear, and be alert to traffic conditions well ahead of and around their own cars.

Parents Warned About Child Disease Hazard

Most parents are careful to safeguard their small children and infants against the hazards of disease, but some are inclined to be less aware of the principal cause of infant and childhood deaths—accidents.

So says the Florida State Board of Health Division of Health Information.

"In children between the ages of one to 15 years, accidents kill and cripple more children than any other cause," states an article in the division's monthly magazine, Florida Health Notes.

Citing the childhood perils of diphtheria, polio, and tetanus, the article states:

"All the three diseases named above are dangerous, and children should be protected against them, but day in and day out in Florida, more children lose their lives from accidents than from any other cause."

The State Health Agency's Bureau of Vital Statistics noted that accidents snuffed out the lives of 228 children from infancy through four years, while the death toll in the 5-14 year age group totaled 144, for a childhood total of 372 deaths during 1954.

Principal locations for fatal childhood accidents included the home, where multiple hazards, such as fire and explosions, poisons, firearms, falls and other types of accidents, accounted for 157 fatalities in the first through the fourteenth year; accidents involving motor vehicles, 89 fatalities; and accidents occurring in public places, including transportation services, 117 deaths.

Pointing out the need for safeguarding children more carefully against accident hazards, the article noted:

"The problem of accident prevention in childhood is unique. No endowed foundation, no research laboratory and no inspired investigator is going to develop a vaccine, serum, antibiotic, endocrine extract or operation that will prevent accidents."

"Though interest, thought and statistical research can be simulated at the community level, the ultimate mediators of any accident-prevention program are the parents."

America is still too young to know how long certain woods can endure. Still standing in the graveyard of St. Michael's Church at Charleston, S. C., is an unusual gravestone erected in 1770. The grave is marked by the headboard of a cypress bed, reports the National Lumber Manufacturers Association.

boost tomato yields in three big ways

Newest member of the famous fungicide family, DITHANE M-22 (maneb) has already shown how it helps tomato growers get higher yields—more marketable crates per acre.

DITHANE M-22 boosts yield and quality three ways:

1. It gives outstanding control of late blight and also protects effectively against all the other major tomato diseases—anthracnose, early blight, Septoria leaf spot, gray leaf spot, and gray mold.
2. DITHANE M-22 is safe for blossoms, fruit, and vines when used as recommended.
3. It helps the vines stay healthier, with rich green foliage.

Add these advantages together, and it's easy to see why fields protected with DITHANE M-22 yield more and better tomatoes at picking time. To top it off, DITHANE M-22 is now conveniently packaged in two bag sizes that contain just the right amount of spray powder for any standard tank capacity. It's also available from your local dealer as blended dusts with or without insecticides.

County And State Educators Work With Migrant Education Problems

LOCAL TEACHERS are attending special classes directed by Florida State University which attempt to solve problems facing teachers of migrant children. Each Glades area is represented along with Hendry county representatives.

Seated (left to right) are J. Homer Bible, general supervisor of Hendry County Schools, Miss Cynthia Slater, girls' physical instructor of Belle Glade High, Dr. Hazen A. Curtis, professor of education, Fla. State University, and Miss Elizabeth Sutton, supervisor of migrant education project.

Standing are Mrs. Lila Myers, head teacher Royal Palm School, Mrs. Ruth Irvin, Osceola School, Clyde Canipe, Principal of Pahokee High, and Mrs. Edrie Maxwell, South Bay School.

Miss Elizabeth Sutton, a veteran of over 20 years in the teaching profession, has taken on a new task in her competence. She is supervisor of a pilot project on the education of migrant children. The position was created in July 1954 in co-operation with Palm Beach County's Board of Education and the school board of Northampton County, Virginia.

Miss Sutton defines migratory children as those who have made at least one move in the past 12 months across county or state lines.

Currently, bi-weekly classes are held at the Belle Glade High School for all teachers with migratory students in their classes. These groups meet Friday and Saturday mornings until March.

Representatives of schools in western Palm Beach County and Hendry County are attending these extension courses. Teachers of Palm Beach County have been aware of these problems and have made every effort to extend the educational experiences of their youngsters. Through this study teachers in every state will benefit by finding a method of co-ordinating efforts from state to state.

Miss Sutton's job moves with the movement of labor. From November until April she works in Florida. During May and June and again in September and October the work moves to Virginia.

Sometimes children enter the school here in Palm Beach County, continue their school in Virginia and then, as their parents move north, they may finish a part of their school in New York State.

Spear-heading this problem of the teachers is Dr. Hazen A. Curtis, professor of education at Florida State University. Through Curtis' work a program of aid to the problems of the teachers having migratory children in their classes has been worked out.

This marks the first time that a course has been conducted specifically to teachers of migratory children. Similar work was offered in summer courses at Cornell University; however, this is the first in the field study in Florida. Palm Beach County was chosen for the pilot project since every school in the Glades has this migrant children problem to study and solve.

Plans are now under way to institute a similar teachers' course under the supervision of Florida A. and M. University for negro teachers. Negro workers and their children make up 90 per cent of the Atlantic Coast movement each year.

Under the pilot plan going on in the two counties teachers will be giving the same work at about the same rate of progress. This enables the children to leave school here and enter the northern schools without being "left behind" in progress. Long ago it was realized that the migratory child had something to contribute to the resident children.

He is encouraged to relate his experiences and travels to the others.

The teachers' problem is how to utilize the experiences of the child in class work. Another problem from the mental attitude standpoint of the child is to make him feel he is a part of the school.

Other specific problems are how to compensate for the children's spasmodic attendance in school. Many children average only five to six months of school because of their family's movement from harvest to harvest.

Another stumbling block is the language problem. Progress in schools with migratory children of Spanish background and Puerto Rican descent is slower than elsewhere in schools which do not have this problem.

How to balance the varying degrees of progress among classmates is another problem to the teachers. As a general rule migratory children are retarded in their academic skills because of irregular school attendance.

The problem of school records to be kept on children who transfer often in the school year has been attacked in the form of a transfer record initiated recently.

This record is in three copies. One copy is kept by the transferring principal; one by the receiving principal, and one to the Miss Sutton as a part of her record.

Information on the card includes data on the subjects taught the children, their reading level and health information.

Miss Sutton explained that this is no small problem. Between 800,000 and a million children are affected by crops requiring migratory labor. Over two thousand children are affected in the Glades alone.

It was brought out that when dealing with constantly moving students the so-called three R's in teaching might suffer for lack of constant attention; however, teachers strive to teach by the experiences of life. These children are taught to adjust to a pattern of life. More emphasis is given to the value of living.

While their scholastic ability may lag, the children are taught a keen sense of values in order to cope with the problems of daily living. Through clinics and workshops similar to those being conducted locally at the high school, these problems will eventually be solved. Constant changes and revisions will come about which will enable teachers of migratory children to conquer obstacles confronting them now. The work has only begun. Nothing but progress is to be gained.

So—come in and see and sample this beauty. You'll find it, we firmly believe, the biggest package of automobile at anywhere near its build price.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the only Dynaflow Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

Molasses Barbecued Meats

Finger-length spears, glazed and seasoned with a molasses barbecue sauce, make most winning hot appetizers for parties. Cut the familiar fare, the barbecued spears will be a popular dish for the family.

Canned baked beans, topped with frankfurters, are the better of the two. Molasses barbecue sauce stirred in before heating. Barbecued chicken, perennial favorite, can be baked or broiled with the same splendid molasses barbecue sauce.

Dedicate unsalted molasses contrasts taste-wise with the nip of prepared mustard in an easy barbecue sauce which can be made up in quantity without refrigeration. One basic recipe yields the seasoning touch to a number of favorite family meats.

Molasses Barbecue Sauce

4 tablespoons unsaltpared	2 tablespoons Worcestershire
4 tablespoons prepared	sauce
4 tablespoons vinegar or	2 teaspoons Tabasco
lemon juice	sauce
	2 teaspoons ketchup

Thoroughly combine unsaltpared molasses and prepared mustard. Gradually stir in vinegar and Worcestershire sauce. Add Tabasco and ketchup; mix well. YIELD: 1/2 cup.

Appetizer: Spears: Brush spears with molasses barbecue sauce. Broil 4 to 5 minutes, or until tender.

Baked Beans: Add 2 tablespoons Molasses Barbecue Sauce to can baked beans; mix well. Simmer 15 minutes; top with heated frankfurters. Or bake beans and frankfurters in a moderate oven, (350° F.) 20 minutes.

University Spokesman Urges Development Of Industrial Technology

"Florida's rapid industrial growth makes more urgent the need to give all children a good grounding in industrial technology," Dr. Roy Bergengen, head of the department of industrial arts, University of Florida, said here Tuesday, Nov. 6.

Bergengen will be moderator of a general session panel discussion during the fourth annual two-day Florida Industrial Arts Planning and Leadership Conference to be held at the University of Tampa on Nov. 25-26.

"Because industrial know-how is one of the great achievements of this country, it should form part of the education of every child," he said.

Furthermore, Florida is now going through a period of rapid industrial expansion. "This expansion," Bergengen said, "promises to increase with time, and with it will increase the demand for people with a good grounding in industrial techniques."

"Many firms would rather employ those with a broad general training in industrial arts, than those with a narrowly specialized training," he said.

"The Tampa conference, which forms part of a continuing program, will be of special importance for the state's 300 leading industrial arts teachers," Berg-engen stressed.

Among those gathering to discuss the conference theme: "Improving the State Industrial Arts Program," will be the Hon. Thomas J. Bailey, state superintendent of public instruction, Walter R. Williams Jr., state director of vocational and adult education, Edwin L. Kurth, newly appointed state consultant for industrial arts, and superintendents of schools and other representatives from many counties.

The conference is intended for all Florida teachers interested in industrial arts.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT WILL PROVIDE EMPLOYEE BONDS UNDER NEW SET-UP

Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield announced that bids are being invited from U.S. Treasury authorized surety companies to provide a new "blanket" or single package bond for all employees of the Post Office Department.

This will mean approximately $10,000 regularly employed postal employees will be relieved, effective January 1, 1956, of bonding costs which they have paid out of their own pockets at rates ranging from less than a dollar a year for lowest-salaried employees of approximately $100 for highest salaried postmasters.

In addition to regularly employed personnel, the blanket bonding will cover all part-time and temporary employees, including those employees put on temporarily for Christmas work. However, since the bonding is not effective until the start of 1956, it will not cover such temporary employees hired during the 1955 Christmas season.

The Post Office Department is mailing the invitations to bid to all 19,185 additional copies are available and may be obtained upon request addressed to the Chief of Procurement, Post Office Department, Washington 25, D. C.

The new bonding arrangements are being made under authorizations provided in the new Public Law 353, which rewrites the Federal Government to obtain surety bonds for such employees as required by law or administrative decision to be bonded.

The law, which was supported by the Post Office Department, provides that the most economical method of bonding will be procured through competitive bidding for the state's 300 leading industrial arts teachers," Berg-pointed out, before enactment of the new law, that it has spent at least $300,000 a year to handle paper work and other administrative costs incident to employee bonding, even though employees themselves paid the premiums.

The saving of this $300,000 will now go a long way towards paying the Post Office Department's premium for the new blanket bond, Mr. Summerfield noted.

Too Late To Classify By RUSSELL KAY

Florida's fabulous story was told to millions last week in a 36-page feature magazine section of the Sunday issue of the New York Times.

The supplement in picture and story provides the reader with detailed information concerning the amazing growth and development of our agricultural, industrial and playground areas.

A foreword by Governor LeRoy Collins invites the reader to "Take a Fresh Look at Florida" in which he says:

"Through this supplement in one of the world's finest newspapers, we in Florida extend a cordial invitation to prospective investors and industrialists to examine our state's great advantages for you."

"After you have read this supplement, we know you will understand why we live here as proud Floridians and the opportunities it offers. These opportunities don't just include fields for sound investment and profitable manufacturing. We regard as equally important the fact that we have fine schools, churches and hospital facilities. These are the elements that make Florida the best state in the nation in which to rear a family. Naturally they contribute to an atmosphere of contented living, the kind of atmosphere that increases productivity on the part of all workers."

"While this supplement contains a wealth of information, I realize you may have specific questions that are left unanswered. If so, I do hope you will write our new Development Commission, Tallahassee, so we can extend our fullest cooperation."

"Of course, if you are considering locations for new plants or fields for investment, the best plan would be to come down and visit us. We in Florida have a product we feel is so excellent, state, Middle Western, production skills and New England education are being put to work at a less frantic pace, now-existent back home, he writes, and "your Florida booster usually turns out to be a fellow who finally got tired of the winters on the Great Lakes, or just moved his family down from the Bronx."

"King-size frustrations, or youthful dreams of glory, no matter how grandiose or touched with madness, have a way of taking root and enjoying fantastic growth in Florida," continues Schuberg. "People of rare daring have found in Florida a last frontier to challenge their will and resourcefulness."

The Holiday feature covers the history and development of the state from its sleepy, sub-tropical beginnings to its flourishing present and optimistic future. In conclusion, the author writes that Florida "is a state with a sunny disposition; people are constantly telling you how much better they feel. The population of other states is made up of people who were born there. Florida is peopled mostly by those who pulled up roots and moved there."

The creation of this splendid supplement appearing in one of the nation's greatest newspapers was made possible through the leadership of a great Governor and the support and cooperation of business and industrial leaders who carried advertising in the section, including airlines, banks, chambers of commerce, railroads, industry and business concerns.

The evidence of such unity of purpose and willingness to "go all-out" on an effort for the advancement of the state is in itself impressive. Florida will be a shining example of a state that is worth while effort, and all who have a part in bringing it about deserve great credit.

Writer Cities Florida As Rapidly Changing

Florida, which has the oldest history and the newest population of any state in the union, is rapidly changing face.

Author Budd Schuberger contributes this statement in the December issue of Holiday Magazine, and writes further that the fusion of the Old South and the New North is rapidly producing a new kind of State. In fact, he finds Florida is to the United States what Europe is to the United States today what a hundred years ago; a melting pot, a frontier, a place to improve your health or your luck.

In the feature article, entitled "The New Florida," Schuberg discusses the spectacular Florida growth and the well publicized tourist trade that accounts for the boom which can visit us. We in Florida have a product we feel is so excellent, state, Middle Western, production skills and New England education are being put to work at a less frantic pace, now-existent back home, he writes, and "your Florida booster usually turns out to be a fellow who finally got tired of the winters on the Great Lakes, or just moved his family down from the Bronx."
